FALL OPENING OF MILLINERY
ATTRACTS UNUSUALLY LARGE CROWDS.

DISPLAY EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD

Some of the Latest Fashions at Mc
Kennon, Anderson & Foster's—Mrs.
Pelton, New York Store and Gar ber's Showing.

(Wednesday's Daily.)

All of fair femininity was a hat hunting today for this marked the opening of the fall millinery in Columbia. Never in the history of the city has a larger or better assorted collection of head gear been displayed. All of the prevailing styles and in all prices were shown.

McKennon, Anderson & Foster's opening was a success from every standpoint. This firm sustained its well deserved reputation of keeping abreast of the times; its stock had been selected with a view of the conflicting tastes of fair womanhood, and likewise with an eye to the very wide range of financial worth that characterize the people of a large community.

Roughly speaking the hats shown by this firm today may be divided into two general styles, although the latter are again subdivided into many different shapes, styles and prices. There are the large hats and the small hats. Milady must choose one extreme or the other, there is little opportunity for compromise this season on the middle ground, although the large hats are no larger than those of last season while the small ones usually make up in height what they lack in breadth.

Among the smaller hats shown by McKennon, Anderson & Foster the well bucket shape is decidedly popular. These are usually made up in cloth, velvet, plush and beavers being the prevailing material. The helmet shapes in various materials are also destined to have many admirers. The Hindoo turbans and Roba Hoods are pleasing examples of the milliner's art among the less conspicuous shapes.

The blacks and all the royal shades are the favorites in colors, largely due to the fact that the death of England's monarch in the spring. The Persian effect is likewise popular. Blue would appear to be the most pronounced in the colors, the national and King's shades prevailing. Brown comes next in demand with the metals also popular, as silver, bronze, gold and brass.

The large hats do not differ very materially from the ever popular and always elegant picture hats that have so long claimed the favor of those of discriminating taste. The well known Gainesborough and Sheperd are the leaders. Fancy willow plumes are destined to be even more popular than they were last season. The Pheasant and Chanticleer effects are much admired. The drooping brim and Charlotte Corday styles appealed to the popular taste.

One of the most stunning hats shown is the large Chanticleer. This hat has a large bronze top, with black velvet face and the only trimming is a full sized Chanticleer, measures from tip to tip thirty-eight inches. Another decided hit is a big beaver, with drooping brim, covered with a lone willow plume in three shades, black, white and coral. It is caught with a Rhinestone. A brown golden velvet with drooping brim trimmed in fancy ostrich, with a frill of cream lace next the face is a most effective hat.

Colleg is being served to the ladies. The opening will continue tomorrow and judging from the crowds who thronged the store seems destined to establish a new record for sales. Miss Herring, the head milliner, assisted by Miss Dowling are in charge of the display.

Mrs. Pelton.

Mrs. N. B. Pelton, in the rear of Harlan & Evans store, is having an opening today and it will also continue tomorrow. Mrs. Pelton's place was visited by many ladies today, and her display was well worth the time required in inspecting it.

The hats, etc., which may be seen at Mrs. Pelton's are very beautiful, and of the latest design. Her stock is extensive and varied and won many words of praise from those who called.

New York Store.

The New York Store of Smolinsky & Haskell is having an opening today, which will continue all week. This firm has a large and well assorted stock of millinery, shoes, clothing, dry goods, etc., and their opening has been quite successful, and the large number of buyers who visited their store attests the popularity of the firm.

The New York Store has made special arrangements for its present opening, and it will be one of the largest and most extensive ever held by them.

A Splendid Opening.

P. Garber had an opening today which was worthy the enterprise heretofore displayed by him. He has a stock which was selected with a view to pleasing a critical trade, and he has succeeded.

His general stock of dry goods, clothing, millinery, etc., must be seen to be appreciated.

The stock of millinery merits special mention at this time.

The preferred materials are velvets, the new hatter's plush, the imported beavers, the silks and satins, turbanstyle hold away, and the "peak" models, the heightened crown and the daintily fetching "hide and seek" styles, encircling the face snugly. Then there are the mushroom models, the turbans, the velvet picture hats, and numerous others—all alluring; and the trimming; there is where individuality runs riot. Great silk and velvet bows, plush effects, rich cockades, plumes, feathers, admittest of lace encircling the hair and framing the face artfully. Ostrich and paradise, not to mention wings, quills, plumage, furs, gold lace, gold novelties and flowers.

A hat that was very much admired was a modish turban of olive green draped crown and band of Persian feathers and two shaded quills.

Another extremely stylish turban was an imported black silk plush combined with Maize plush and yellow Bird of Paradise at left side.

A stylish mushroom hat of variegated Persian with black silk velvet underfacing and shaded feathers was much admired.

Another extremely stylish changeable Duchess satin hat trimmed with two large red poppies and shaded foliage was admired by many.

A French copy that was greatly admired was the large "Aeroplane" hat of silk velvet with a handsome willow plume.

A "hide and seek" hat that was cute was made of King's blue velvet trimmed with black willow plume and Persian rushing around the brim.

A very bewitching hat was a Mercury turban of black velvet combined with brass and two soft brass wings and caught with an exquisite Persian ornament.

Miss Leah Garber is head trimmer and she will be assisted by Misses Nona and Lela Howell and Miss Besie Sowell.

GREAT RECEPTION FOR CAPT. HOOPER IN HANNAH'S COUNTY

FUSION NOMINEE FOR GOVERNOR
RECEIVED WITH ENTHUSIASM IN ROANE.

SPEAKING AT KINGSTON TODAY

Ancient Capital of Tennessee Scene of Remarkable Demonstration for Law and Order Candidate—Enloe Also Heard by Both Parties.

Special to The Herald.

HARRIMAN, Sept. 28.—Capt. Hooper delivered two speeches in this section yesterday. He spoke at Clinton at 1 o'clock and last night he spoke at this place. Capt. Hooper was accompanied here by Col. Enloe who had spoken with him at Clinton and Hon. Lee Brock, of Nashville, also joined him here and the three gentlemen divided the time. Harriman is a good town for night speaking and the attendance was good evidence of the interest that has been aroused in Roane county. The Independents here are lined up solid for the fusion nominees, and had a big part in the entertainment.

At Clinton yesterday morning old Confederate veterans and old Union veterans were both given a chance to participate. The oldest Confederate and the oldest Federal veteran in Anderson county were named as flag bearers and the Confederate veterans turned out in large numbers to welcome the speakers. The Anderson county court house is located about a half mile from the railway station and the speakers were met with automobiles and conveyed to the court house, a reception committee of several hundred having gathered at the station to meet the gubernatorial candidate.

Capt. Hooper arrived here in time for supper. He was enthusiastically received and the opera house was filled when the three speakers went to the rostrum. Capt. Hooper found that he had many friends in the county of Roane, the county which used to feel honored when the name of Hannah was mentioned. Many of Gen. Hannah's intimate friends, men who had gloried in his achievements in the past, are lined up behind Capt. Hooper and last night participated in the reception. Capt. Hooper found opportunity to refer to the fact that he was speaking in the home county of Gen. Hannah and his very mention of Hannah's name brought forth applause.

Col. Enloe left Capt. Hooper at this place, but Mr. Brock remained with him for the two Roane county speeches of today. At noon today the two gentlemen are speaking at Kingston, the county seat and tonight they will speak at Rockwood. Roane county will be the only county in the State to be favored with three addresses from Capt. Hooper and a big majority will be rolled up for him here. Even if Harvey Hannah should be nominated by the Pattersonites Oct. 6, leaders state that the fusion nominee will receive a majority of at least 900 here. The Republicans have a normal majority of about 1,000 here and under the present circumstances this majority will be exceeded.

After tonight Capt. Hooper breaks into Middle Tennessee, making his first stop at Cookeville. Tomorrow he speaks at Alexandria and Saturday night he comes to Shelbyville and the following Monday will be in Columbia.

EAGER TO HEAR CAPT. B. W. HOOPER

LEWISBURG, Tenn., Sept. 27.—The Republicans and Independent Democrats of Marshall county are delighted at announcement that Lewisburg is to be included in the list of appointments for Capt. B. W. Hooper in the Fifth Congressional district. The people here are eager to hear the fusion candidate for Governor. He will be heard by a record breaking crowd at his Lewisburg appointment. Capt. Hooper will be accompanied by Hon. Jeff McCann, of Nashville, who will also speak.

ARMY AND NAVY AIRSHIP FLEETS

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER PROSPECTS—SON OF THOS. F. RYAN.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—John Barry Ryan, son of Thomas F. Ryan, the New York multimillionaire, spent today in the War and Navy Departments and succeeded in driving the officials into a state of enthusiasm over the proposition to provide the army and navy with a fleet of airships that would augment tremendously the offensive and defensive powers of the twin service.

The attractive feature of Mr. Ryan's proposition was its economical side; he did not ask a dollar of government money in return for the creation of a reserve of about a thousand aeroplanes that might be called immediately into service by the government in time of need. What he did want was the moral support of the two departments in the creation of the "aeronautical reserve," and this was promised him by General Allen, chief signal officer, who naturally looks after aeronautical matters for the War Department, and by Captain Fletcher, in charge of materials, who discharges a similar function for the navy.

The idea is to have an officer detailed from each branch of the service to act with the aeronautical reserve acting in the advisory capacity, and to assist in the organization of the reserve or military lines. Regular plans for campaign are to be mapped out and there will be maneuvers and drills to prepare for actual warfare. Efforts will be made to develop aeroplanes of greater size than those now in use, so as to transport a corps of guards and to carry sufficient ammunition for effective bomb work.
